COUNCIL RATIFIES ACTION ON SEWER WORK

Los Angeles Youth Killed in Auto Crash; Jugular Vein Severed

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

City Council Ratifies Its Former Action In Contracting For Sewer Engineering

AT a special meeting of the Glendale city council held this morning the previous action of that body in entering into a contract with Burns & McDonnell of Los Angeles was ratified.

This contract covers the engineering work for the proposed Glendale sewer, both in Glendale and the part of Los Angeles it is to be laid in.

According to members of the city council, the contract was given to this firm in preference to a local organization for the reason that they were more experienced in this particular line of engineering work.

IT is quite a nice plum to land in an engineering way and if a local man could have been given the contract, of course most of the money paid in wages would have been spent among our merchants.

We presume the city council looked thoroughly into this local aspect and gave the contract to an outside firm with the feeling that the city's interests would be better served.

We are publishing the contract in full on another page for your information.

IN a short time you will probably be called on to subscribe to the Glendale Community Chest. It might be well for you to begin studying over just how you are going to support it in a financial way. In arriving at a decision bear in mind that by supporting a chest you will be called on for a gift of money only once a year and in accordance with that plan you may give all you gave to the numerous bodies last year, but in one lump sum. We recognize that quite a few individuals have a preference in supporting certain organizations but in giving to a chest without any reservations such persons will be supporting all the worthwhile organizations in town.

YOU may also rest assured that the organization you would prefer will be better supported under the chest plan than ever before. So don't hesitate to give freely to the chest with a feeling that any special charity will receive less than in former years.

CITIZENS LAUD CITY'S WELFARE CHEST

Dr. Newton and W .E. Hewitt Enumerate Good Points of Plan

A Community chest for the collection and disbursement of all local charitable funds is very desirable for Glendale.

Such is the opinion of Dr. Warren Z. Newton of 121 North Brand boulevard who has observed the efficiency of this system in San Francisco.

"The Community chest is not an experiment," he remarked, this morning. "It has been established with success in nearly a hundred American cities. I am sure that Glendale can benefit by their experience, which has been very satisfactory."

According to W. E. Hewitt of 319 East Randolph street, chairman of the campaign committee, many drives, tag days, and sporadic campaigns, entailing both effort and expense, will be eliminated through the establishment of the Glendale Welfare chest. This is a fund to which citizens donate once a year what they desire to give for charity, relief and welfare work. This fund is distributed among the worthy charitable institutions and agencies.

"Glendale's Welfare chest will insure justice," asserted Dr. Newton, "for it will estimate the worth of each agency and give each its just share of the total fund. It will make sure that worthy organizations are supported and that wasted effort is eliminated. It will free the governing bodies of the different relief and welfare agencies from the harassment of financial worries and leave them more time to increase their merciful efficiency.

"Contributors to the fund will have the assurance that the money they give will do the maximum amount of good. This method of raising funds means a reduction in campaign expenses."

COUNCIL RATIFIES CITY SEWER CONTRACT

Burns & McDonnell to Get Engineering Work It States

The Glendale city council, at a special meeting held at 11 o'clock this morning, adopted a resolution ratifying the contract for the engineering work on the Glendale city sewer connection to the Los Angeles outfall, and authorizing Mayor Robinson and Clerk Van Wie to sign it. This contract is between the city of Glendale & Burns & McDonnell Engineering company of Los Angeles and Kansas City. This resolution was adopted on motion of Councilman Hall, seconded by Councilman Horn. The vote was unanimous.

An amendment to the resolution offered by Councilman Davis, to the effect that the contract be split, and part given to Edward M. Lynch, local engineer, was defeated. In the consideration of the amendment City Attorney Morrow stated that to pass this amendment would be to invite a lawsuit as the contract had already been signed by Mayor Robinson.

DRY ENFORCEMENT IN CHICAGO GAINS IMPETUS

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Chicago's "bone dry" area, limited to the city proper during Mayor Dever's dry law enforcement campaign, today is extending its territory to suburbs outside the city limits as Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe continues to act on injunction suits against violators of the Volstead law. More than a score of roadhouses and suburban soft drink parlors are closed today as a result of injunction orders issued yesterday and more than 150 petitions for injunctions sealing for one year property used in violating the Volstead law are to be heard by Judge Cliffe during the week. Many of the places which the government seeks to close are located beyond the jurisdiction of the city police.

In every case the injunction decrees enjoin use of the property for any purpose whatever for one year.

While the federal orders went out against outlying saloons and liquor resorts, a police order was issued requiring proprietors of downtown coffee shops to do away with swinging doors, bar rails and other fixtures reminiscent of the old time saloon.

WEST GLENDALE FOLK TO DISCUSS SEWER BONDS

At the next meeting of the West Glendale Improvement Association to be held November 13, sewer bonds will be the theme of discussion and members of the city council will be invited to attend and address the club.

MRS. HORTON WINS FIGHT FOR LITTLE STORE BY SCHOOL

Mrs. Horton, who for months has conducted a store at 506 South Pacific, won her fight before the city council last night for the right to move the buildings to the next lot south of the one which she formerly owned and which has been purchased for school purposes.

The Parent-Teachers association of Pacific Avenue school protested against Mrs. Horton being given a permit to re-establish her business on the ground that the children of the school spent their lunch money for candies instead of for lunches.

Mrs. Horton stated that the only reason she sold her lot to the school authorities was because some member of the school board threatened to condemn her land if she did not sell. She stated that by the returns from the little store she is supporting herself and her mother. She denied that she sold "cheap candies," but that she sold such as are handled at the cafeteria of the school.

Mrs. Stone, principal of the Pacific Avenue school, stated that the store was a menace to the health of the children, because they spent money at all times during the day for candies.

It was ordered that the zoning ordinance be amended so as to place the lot recently purchased by Mrs. Horton in the business district, and a special permit to move the buildings was granted to her.

NORTH LOUISE ST. RESIDENTS WANT INSTANT RELIEF

Say Flood Menace Must Be Guarded Against Adequately

Emergency measures to protect the residents and property in the vicinity of North Louise street from possible storm waters were decided on by the Glendale city council last night. This action was taken in response to a letter received from the residents of North Louise street, a portion of which is as follows:

"We insist that we be given immediate and perfect protection. We are not willing to permit for one day longer than is possible this unprotected condition to stand. We are helpless and at the mercy of the terrible flood waters. We realize that the urgency of the case will compel you to devise means, some of which will have to be temporary, to protect us during the coming rainy season."

Engineer Dupuy stated that four 30-inch concrete pipes had been ordered and would be delivered in about 30 days, two of these to be laid at the threatened points.

Councilman Kimlin asked why these pipes could not be secured at once. "I could have 30-inch clay or sewer pipe delivered there within 24 hours," he said. "Why can't the interested parties be asked to do this work immediately?"

The city engineer was instructed to confer with those interested and to report at a special meeting of the council to be held today.

Councilman Davis stated in this connection that within a few days Supervisor Wright will visit Glendale and look over the flood water problem. He has assured the Glendale city council that within a short time county funds will be available for the protection of the wash and that it absolutely will be spent for the purpose.

AMERICAN LEGION TO CELEBRATE NOV. 12TH

That Date Is the Official Armistice Day This Year

The American Legion is now promoting plans for a celebration on Monday, November 12, which will be observed this year as Armistice day. Although the local Post was late in taking the initiative this year because of grief over the heroic death of Comrade Clarence Edwards, it is believed that it is not too late to arrange a celebration worthy of Glendale.

Patriotic, fraternal and civic organizations are being invited to participate in a monster parade in the morning. This will typify the spirit of the occasion.

The afternoon will be occupied by one or more football games on the high school gridiron. Arrangements are being made for a community dance in the evening.

E. L. Sullivan of 219 South Brand boulevard is chairman of the committee on arrangements. Other members are L. G. Fortier, Joseph Wilson, W. H. Regelin, M. V. Cook, Al G. Whelon and C. M. Salano, all members of Post 127.

PARCEL POST SERVICE WILL BE IMPROVED

The parcel post delivery and collection efficiency of the local postoffice is to be doubled or trebled in the immediate future, according to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson. This morning he received a telegram from John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general, instructing him to rent an additional delivery truck pending the arrival early in December of two delivery trucks to be used permanently by the local post office. Previously, the only truck available for the collection and distribution of parcel post packages has been the property of one of the carriers and could not be utilized for more than eight hours a day. The new trucks can be used for 24 hours a day apiece if necessary.

GET DELIVERY ON 50 REGULATION FIRE PLUGS

Eagle Rock to Have More Efficient Fire Protection Soon

Fifty substantial looking regulation size fire plugs are lying at their respective locations in Eagle Rock ready to be installed. This in partial fulfillment of the promise of 75 plugs, included in the recommendations of the fire department, after a survey had been made.

The other 25 plugs are to be installed as soon as they can be procured. The new plugs are several times the size of the plugs installed by the city of Eagle Rock. They offer two openings for hose attachments, instead of one, and will enable the fire fighters to secure better pressure in fighting flames.

The flames have eaten their way into a large section of the north bleachers and a considerable portion of the wooden track is ablaze.

Fire apparatus from Hollywood and Los Angeles is helping to fight the fire.

While the flames were raging through the bleachers at 1:45 o'clock, the wind was blowing across the track and indications were that the grand stand, on the opposite side of the track from the bleachers would be saved.

BONAR LAW DIES AT THREE THIS MORNING

Was Labor's Choice and Premier of England for 7 Months

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Andrew Bonar Law, for seven months prime minister of Great Britain, died in his modest London home at 3 o'clock this morning.

Five month ago, on May 20, he resigned the premiership because of a throat malady which for a long time had troubled him. Even then he was reluctant to admit that his career was finished and retained his seat in the house of commons where he since had made two or three appearances.

Ten days ago Mr. Bonar Law returned to London from Brighton after a sojourn of several weeks. His physicians issued a statement to the effect that he had contracted a severe chill but the public did not suspect that the end was so near until they read in this morning's newspapers that he had developed septic pneumonia and a condition that gave rise to considerable anxiety, but soon after extras appeared giviing the news of hs death.

The ex-premier's daughter, his only near relative left in England, was with him during the last days of his illness. His two sons were killed in the World war, a sorrow from which Mr. Bonar Law never recovered.

WELFARE CHEST COMMITTEE MEETS

Campaign Directors Discuss and Agree on Some of Plans

Members of the campaign committee of the Glendale Welfare Chest responded nobly to the call for conference at the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening. Chairman A. W. Tower presided and Secretary Burton McGinnis recorded the proceedings. Others present were Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. John Robert White, V. M. Hollister, George Karr, E. F. Sanders, Mrs. E. S. McKee, Rev. C. M. Calderwood, L. T. Rowley, A. L. Ferguson, Dr. Warren Z. Newton, C. W. Ingledue, Mrs. Dwight Stephenson, Mrs. Sidney Reeve, Mrs. W. H. Verity and Richardson D. White.

Plans of organization were discussed and it was agreed that division of the field by precincts of which there are 27, would be the most satisfactory plan, with a general for each precinct and possibly four captains under him who would directly supervise the workers.

It was roughly estimated that the precincts would average 200 families and that an average of 15 to 20 families would be all the canvassing that should be required of each worker.

Ways and means of selecting the generals to be held responsible for the canvass of the precincts were discussed and finally agreed upon, and a partial list was compiled which will be checked and announced after the appointees have all been seen and have agreed to serve.

Thursday evening there will be another meeting of the executive committee which may turn out to be a joint session of executive committee, campaign and publicity committees.

FOOLISH YARN IS VERY QUICKLY NAILED

Unselfish Promoters of November 6 Benefit Slandered

It is sad to think that anyone has a mind so warped as to attribute any unworthy motives to the many disinterested citizens who are working so nobly and unselfishly in the promotion of the benefit performance for the fire victims' dependents. Such an idea has never occurred to us and if it had it would have been instantly scouted as utterly impossible.

It is unfortunate that so preposterous a charge should ever have been given publicity, for it was nothing but "hole and corner whisperings," but since it has the Daily Press is quick to affirm that so far from any individual profiting even one penny from the proceeds of the proposed entertainment on the evening of November 6, except the announced beneficiaries, more than one of the hardest workers in the cause is giving of his time and money toward it, besides buying more than his share of the tickets.

MIDDLE-AGED GOLFERS SCORN GRIM WARNING

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30. — The warning of London physicians that persons 50 years old or more are endangering their lives by playing golf is scoffed at by Cleveland's "Indian Scouts" foursome, believed to be one of the oldest active quartets in the world, who may be seen regularly on the golf links here. Their combined age is 227 years. None of them started playing golf until he was past the half century mark.

The foursome is composed of Charles W. Burrows, 74; G. T. McIntosh, 75; J. W. S. Webb, 69, and A. W. Neale, 59. All are prominent business men here and may be seen on the links "every Saturday and a couple or three times a week," as one of them put it.

When they are "on their game" the foursome play in the low eighties or nineties. They have been playing together for about 12 years.

DEATH RESULTS FROM AUTO CRASH

Los Angeles Youth Has Jugular Vein Severed

Ralph Wellington Schafer Hutchens of Los Angeles was killed about 4:30 yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Doran street and Glendale avenue in an automobile accident.

Accompanied by a friend, Walton Kittell of 1550 Elvado street, Los Angeles, Mr. Hutchens was southbound on Glendale avenue.

The driver of the other car was Dr. Montague Cleeves of La Crescenta. He had been eastbound on Doran street and was turning north on Glendale avenue, when the two cars met head-on in a terrific collision. He was thrown out of his machine and received a cut over the left temple. However, he was able to supervise the removal of his automobile, which had its left hind wheel smashed.

The impact of the collision turned the other automobile over and Mr. Hutchens was lifted from the paving by persons who hurried to the scene. He was laid upon the sidewalk to await the arrival of an ambulance. It is believed that his jugular vein was severed by broken glass from the windshield, as he died almost instantly. His companion received only slight bruises.

The machine driven by Mr. Hutchens was badly demolished. Its steering wheel was smashed and its top frame was bent completely out of shape. Through a coincidence, both automobiles were of the same make.

An inquest into the accident will be held at 9:30 tomorrow morning in the chapel of Kiefer & Eyerick.

Mr. Hutchens was 20 years old and lived at 2232 Childs avenue, Los Angeles with his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Hutchens. He was a lather by occupation, and it is believed that he was returning home from a job in the up-country.

Truths in Epigram

If we all had hearts like those that beat so lightly in the bosoms of the young and beautiful, what a heaven this earth would be.—Dickens.

Recreation is intended to the mind, as whetting to the scythe, which otherwise would grow dull and blunt.—Bishop Hall.

POLITENESS AND SAFETY

It is a singular fact that many people, ordinarily courteous, forget their manners when sitting at the steering wheel and rolling along a crowded thoroughfare.

Courtesy tends to make life more pleasing. In the midst of a moving throng of automobilists it does more than this, for it adds to safety. There always are green drivers, the beginners, feeling their way along; doing the best they know, and silently praying for escape from the road hog, the bully or the boor. They get nervous when denied the right-of-way that belongs to them. The driver who crowds them too closely in passing is likely to send them into the ditch, or crashing into other machines.

To turn, or to stop, without having given the proper signal, is risky. There are plenty of reckless folk who do not take risk into consideration. They know themselves capable of handling their machine, and they do not care as to the ability of others. Well, if they do not go on the "Safety First" plan, were they to reflect that failure to do so is an indecent act of inconsideration, they might reform. If caution is no check upon their illegal conduct, perhaps courtesy would be more effective could they be induced to reflect upon the point.

The simple act of being a gentleman has its compensations. There is no good reason why the gentility that marks the social gathering, or business contact, should not be exercised on the open road. It would make both vehicular and foot traffic less liable to disaster.

SELECTION OF STUDENTS

Before the University club of Pasadena a few months ago President Von KleinSmid of the University of Southern California advocated the policy of selecting students. He said that the applicants were more in number than institutions of learning had facilities to instruct. Therefore he held that the unqualified should not be permitted to enter. He thought it wise that the waste of their time and effort should be averted by rejecting them. This also would render the professors more able to handle satisfactorily the proportion that had got by the outer guard into the classroom.

Even before this a member of the faculty at the State university had declared that two-thirds of the students under him never should have sought a university course. He held that they lacked the capacity to achieve any intellectual advancement worth while. Many of them he regarded as adapted only to manual labor, the implication being that for such labor no mental training was essential.

The general feeling at the time was that the gentleman either was wholly in error or had over-stated the case.

Just recently President Von KleinSmid has returned from a tour that gave him contact with several colleges, both as to the teaching staff and the student bodies. He comes back with his belief modified. The plan of limiting college attendance he deems to have been a failure. The difficulty is that the only way to discern the quality of a student is to permit him to become a student. If he can not keep up with the requirements, naturally he drops out. It is fair that he be given a chance to prove himself.

Whether the Berkeley professor has changed his mind similarly does not appear. Some minds are more pliable than others.

THE NEW TESTAMENT

The Pasadena Post is printing as a serial the Goodspeed translation of the New Testament. The innovation is welcomed for several reasons. It will place before many perhaps not intimately acquainted with the wisdom and beauty of the matchless chronicle, the essence of its great message to humanity. They will be attracted at first by the idea of novelty, and then held by the vivid interest. Whatever the motive, as they turn to the daily installment, the attiture will change to reverence.

The New Testament sets forth the rule of life that, followed, would mean happiness to the individual, peace to the nations. One may discern in its pages wisdom that fairly glows, that appeals at once to the heart and the understanding. Beholding the charm and potency of the plea for unselfishness and love, wonder arises that the light it bears aloft has failed to reach fully the senses of the generation; that against it the windows of the soul have been closed.

Anything that takes the message of the New Testament and places it before the eyes of the multitude is the instrument of good. Even if the phraseology has been changed to fit more closely the modern conception of the English language, the appeal has not been lost nor weakened.

To habitual students of the scriptures, the King James version doubtless will remain as the standard, endeared even by the quaintness that marks portions of the construction. In any adequate language the New Testament inspires by its directness, its clarity, its precision and its promise.

AMBASSADOR TO ENGLAND

Senator Frank B. Kellogg has been appointed ambassador ot the court of St. James. The post is one of the most important. Its problems are difficult at all times. The usual delicacy of the situations that the American ambassador must meet are much accentuated by present conditions. England is a land of economic unrest and social turmoil. It is deeply concerned with the outcome of European affairs, and with the attitude of America toward them. It is agitated by the course of France in relation to Germany, and yet perceives the desirability of remaining on good terms with its old ally. The American representative in England manifestly must be friendly to that government, yet he is inhibited from a course that might in any manner be construed as an offense by the French. Thus he must have the utmost tact, and a poise not to be disturbed.

There have been many able Americans sent to the court of St. James. As a rule they have been citizens of education and mental attainment. Almost necessarily they have been of independent means, for the expenses of the embassy are far beyond the sum made available by the government to meet them. The occupant of the station must be content with the honor, with the sense of duty performed, and with the consciousness that he has been an instrument in promoting amity between two great peoples.

To the late Walter Hines Page fell the distinction of serving at a time that made supendous demands of serving at a time that made stupendous demands meet the requirements that the high standard he set cannot fail to be an inspiration to his successors. He did a mighty work with splendid fortitude, and because he did it so well, he gave his life for his country. Ambassadors measured by comparison with Page must realize that the task calls for unflagging devotion, a deep and abiding patriotism, and a love for all humanity.

The country feels confident that the choice of President Coolidge in this instance was based not on political expendiency, but on the desire to have a man of high type, a man of thorough Americanism, and yet of wide and humane view.

Officers at Santa Ana had the disagreeable experience of killing an ex-convict the other day. He had been known as a "bad man," was proud of the title, and ambitious to vindicate his right to it. Hence with his boots on, he was urged to depart this life. The "bad" person always is a poor insurance risk.

Making the Punishment Fit the Crime

They are using force, to be sure; but force has from the first been a Facist weapon. Now as a rule all the tenets of my faith are opposed to force. But there is one time when it comes in handy; or, to state the exact truth, there is one time when nothing else can take its place, and that is when force must be suppressed.

When a man kisses a woman by force he has used a form of assault; also he has outraged a personality. It is vital to the progress of peace and reason that his cave-man tendencies should be suppressed. Naturally, you can't argue with such a man; but you can, if you be strong enough, give him castor oil; and that is just what a group of Facisti did to an ancient beau who recently forced his attentions on a young girl in a remote Italian hamlet.

Naturally a romantic old idiot who goes about kissing unwilling girls did not take castor oil willingly, not he. But revolvers are cunning persuaders and the ancient offender swallowed a bottle of the nauseous dose.

Was he cured? The dispatches say he WAS. Nothing so quickly cools love ardor as to make the lover ridiculous. A cold plunge, an overdose of some powerful cathartic, a 50-mile march to double quick time, or any one of a dosen practical measures of like kind will skillfully and promptly yank a love lorn swain, be he 16 or 60, out of his dream life in the blue empyrean and plant his erstwhile pursuing feet flatly on terra firma.

It isn't ethical to beat up the aged; no more is it ethical to kiss girls who dislike you and prefer to reserve their lips for some one else. Kissing may be just as much a form of assault as beating, a point that the Facisti appear to recognize, hence the castor oil and the alleged subsequent reformation of the kissing bandit.

Which brings us to the Ku Klux Klan.

In the list of disciplinary measures used by these gentry castor oil has not yet appeared. The Facisti have indicated a new method of approaching troublesome social problems. Instead of the lash, would it not be well for the Ku Klux Klan to hereafter administer castor oil in heroic doses to offenders against the moral code? (As laid down by them).

They might even secure newspaper publicity to help advertise the plight of the dosees, and the bored public could lay bets on how much castor oil the human system can absorb without disintegration. In the long run the Klan would stand a good deal better in public opinion if it used the originality and ingenuity of the Facisti in disciplining the unruly.

The lash is old, brothers; it takes ingenuity to invent modern methods of handling emotional questions.

Try the castor oil.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

It's a long time—a mighty long time—since I said goodbye to little Hen Darby. I was just about to leave the hustling young town in which we had both grown up, to take a chance in a real big city. Henry was the proprietor of a little haberdashing establishment. It was about as big as a feed box.

"You can't make any money here, Henry," I said. "Your place isn't big enough."

"When you get down town," said he, "look in the windows of the Bon Ton store, find out what they're featuring today, and telephone the news to me."

The Bon Ton was our town's largest store. Its buyers went to Europe, and one or two were always in New York. They had more plate glass, more miles of aisles, more ducal floor walkers, more tired little girls behind the counters, more reputation, more fashion, more money than a thousand Henry Darbys. I telephoned him the news, but I added a little advice.

"Stay in your own class, Henny," I said. "If the Bon Ton ever finds out about you, it will smash you. Do not make yourself believe you are a competitor—"

Henny pretty nearly yanked the telephone out by the roots—

"Not a competitor?" he bellowed. "First thing you'll be telling me you're not a fool. You go bet your money I'm a competitor. And what's more, I'm a successful competitor."

Yesterday I met Mr. Henry Darby, owner of the combined Darby-Bon Ton-Lovely Fashion stores stepping out of his limousine. If Henry had taken my advice he would now be the owner of a nice, conservative, four-by-eight neighborhood store, which nearby residents would patronize when they ran out of collars.

He always thought of himself as a competitor. That made him one.

FIRST M. E. FOLK REJOICE WITH THEIR PASTOR

Members of the First Methodist church took occasion to rejoice Monday evening with their pastors, Dr. Henry I. Rasmus and Rev. Harry Rasmus, his son, over their return to this charge the coming year.

About 300 attended a reception in honor of these pastors and their wives, given in the social hall of the church, which had been beautified with flowers and greenery in honor of the occasion.

C. F. McKee presided and after prayer had been offered by Rev. Hoskyn, and a whistling solo rendered by Miss Isabel Isgrig, the formal welcome to pastors and their wives was voiced by Dr. Julius Soper. Mrs. W. G. Collins spoke on behalf of the women of the church, E. W. Edwards, superintendent of intermediates on behalf of the Sunday school, and Attorney Frank Weller for the men of the church. Rev. C. M. Caldergwood, pastor of the First Congregational church, was a guest and voiced his own pleasure in the return of these fellow workers in the Ministerial association.

Responses were made by both Dr. Henry Rasmus and his son and light refreshments were served during the social hour which followed the program.

EVERYBODY CAN DRINK COMALT ON HALLOWE'EN

Surprises are certainly in store for the children who will attend the Hallowe'en party to be given for all of the youngsters of the city on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the high school. In addition to an interesting program of fun planned by the Kiwanis club many other features are being planned. One of these will be in the nature of the refreshments, which will include a treat of "Comalt," a chocolate malted milk, and the manufacturers are making an unusual offer to the best letter written about this refreshment, which is made in Glendale by the S. W. Brown Co., the head of which has written the following letter:

To the children of Glendale:

The Kiwanis club is going to give you a big party tomorrow night and I am sure that you will all have a good time. I am hoping to add to your pleasure by seeing that you all have Comalt served to you at the party. I know you will like it but I want to know what you think of it so as soon as you can I want you to write to me and tell me just what you think of Comalt and for the best letter I receive I will give a prize of five dollars. Mother can get Comalt so that you can have it at any time.

My best wishes for a good time tomorrow night.

EMERSON SCHOOL HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The studio of the Emerson School of Self Expression was the scene of much fun and revelry yesterday afternoon when the students of the junior department made merry in Hallowe'en fashion.

The rooms were beautifully decorated in orange and black crepe paper, festoons of which hung gracefully from the ceiling, while shaded lights, black cats and witches gave a weird effect to the scene. As the guests arrived each one was initiated into the "High Order of Goblins and Witches," and following this ceremony he or she was presented with a Hallowe'en cap and mask. Various games and stunts were played, the fortune telling witch, impersonated by Mrs. R. W. Cleghorn, being the center of interest. A dance called "The Villagers" was given by Helen Page and Charlotte Sturgess, members of the dancing class. Mrs. Evelyn Labodie, director of the school, and her assisting hostess, Mesdames Max Boyha and R. W. Cleghorn and the Misses Marie Walsh, Helen Page and Bessie Long, served a most bountiful repast to the guests, which was enjoyed by all.

MONTROSE NOTES

John Roade of Imperial Valley was on Monday a visitor in Montrose. He was here in the interests of business connected with property holdings.

Two atractive buildings in the course of construction on Ocean View avenue have led to a good deal of curiosity and speculation on the part of passersby. One, an interesting brown stucco Spanish structure on the corner of Ocean View and Montrose avenues is the property of Mr. H. Cox and Dr. Wooley, realtors, who will take up their business in the new structure within a few weeks. They also have office rooms on Michigan avenue. The other new building is the property of Mr. Stahlberg, proprietor of the Peacock Service station. Mr. Stahlberg plans to open another service station and garage on Ocean View as soon as the work is completed.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce has been called for this evening at 7:30. The session will be held in the offices of the Carson Realty company.

J. C. Meyers, wife and daughter, of Alexandria, Minn., have taken up their residence in Montrose. Mr. Meyers was formerly connected with the Union Central Life Insurance company of Cincinnati.

Miss Virginia Ellis, formerly with the chamber of commerce of Mesa, Arizona, and a reporter for the Arizona Gazette, will open offices in Montrose where she will do public stenographic work. Specifications, statements, copying and general correspondence will be some of the lines that she will cover. Miss Ellis has had a good deal of experience in public work and she will conduct all her business in a courteous and strictly confidential manner. She will be located in the Carson Realty company's offices on Honolulu avenue after the first of the month.

OWL DRUG CO TYPICAL SIGN FLOODS CORNER WITH LIGHT

That electricity makes brighter than ever before the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway is nightly demonstrated at the Owl corner. The installation of two of the drug company's typical signature electric signs, releasing over 3000 watts of light, was observed by hundreds of the curious on Monday night. This method of spelling out its company name was originated by its general manager, W. M. Berg, some twelve years ago, and although widely copied by competitors, continues to be the most illuminating part of the exteriors of all Owl drug stores in the twenty-one cities from Glendale to Chicago.

"While newspaper advertising will always be our one big bet," said Mr. Luedke, local Owl manager yesterday, "we certainly believes in signs, especially electric signs. And we aren't selfish either, for we think we are doing our bit to make Brand boulevard a great white way at night. No big city is dark by night and already Glendale compares favorably with the downtown section of Los Angeles."

Mrs. E. Gilliland, chairman of co-operation in affairs for ex-service men and women of the Tuesday Afternoon club, and Mrs. F. G. Abbey attended a conference of the Southern District of Federated clubs in Los Angeles, at which plans for the year were made, including special activity in the way of Christmas welfare work at the various hospitals.

"COMALT"

"A Prophet Hath No Honor in His Own Country"

To the Citizens of Glendale:

The wise old sage that said the above did not foresee "COMALT" and "GREEN HILL," otherwise he would have modified his statement.

My comparatively short residence in Glendale has shown me that there is truly a wonderful community spirit here and I am sure that when you realize the wonderful success that "COMALT" has had elsewhere you will recognize that in order to back the boosting of this great local product that each and every one of you must get the "COMALT" habit here.

Now I am going to tell you why I had the SMITH-EMERY CO., the foremost CHEMISTS and CHEMICAL ENGINEERS, make an analysis of "COMALT," and they report in part as follows:

FAT 12%
CALORIES ..... 17.25 per oz.

This means that there is being made in this city of Glendale a food drink that is both satisfying and nourishing, whether served hot or cold, GLENDALE MADE—NOT IMPORTED. A perfect CHOCOLATE MALTED MILK, invented by us and controlled by us.

During the past sixty days "COMALT" has given Glendale publicity and fame all over the UNITED STATES, so you will recognize that YOUR increased consumption of "COMALT" is not only a healthful thing for your family but a help in increasing one of the foremost home industries here.

If your druggist or soda fountain is not serving "Comalt" find out why.

IT IS THE SAME WITH THE REST OF OUR PRODUCTS, Ginger Ale or whatever it may be, Glendale is making you just as good an article as any place in the world and you good people hereafter can feel that anything bearing our label is just what it purports to be and is as good as is made anywhere, and furthermore, every time you buy and consume GREEN HILL products you are adding to the prosperity of your own city and getting the best there is.

We want your business in our line and we want you to boost Glendale products—NOT ONLY OUR GOODS BUT EVERYTHING MADE AND SOLD HERE. I personally guarantee my best efforts in helping.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Christian Science: The Solution of the World's Problems

by

John Randall Dunn, C. S. B., of Boston, Massachusetts

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

You have noticed many times, without doubt, a certain inscription over exits from buildings and cars which reads: "This Way Out." Often have I wished that I might write below this the words, "Christian Science," for every student of this great subject realizes more and more that the understanding and practical application of the Science of Christianity affords the only definite way out of the many problems which confront and perplex humanity today.

Nineteen centuries ago the great Teacher of Nazareth pointed the way out of human discords and rightfully has ever been called "The Way-shower." But have mortals really accepted Jesus as the practical Wayshower out of aught but sin? Have they looked on him as the greatest healer of disease that the world has ever known? Have they realized that on the shores of the Galilean lake were given scientific rules which, when put into operation, would solve here and now the knotty problems of human existence, of capital and labor, of supply and demand, problems of men and of nations? In a word, have mortals been turning naturally to the teachings of Jesus to find present-day salvation from evil?

Present-Day Salvation

If a bit of personal reminiscence is permissible, I would say that our family, though conscientious church-goers always, never supposed their sense of Christianity capable of supplanting their quinine and calomel in a case of sickness. Such a thought would have been labeled speedily as far-fetched and not common sense. Quite unconsciously, I am sure, we exemplified the sentiment of the man who said that religion was an excellent thing if not carried too far, and was not allowed to interfere with the practical affairs of life! But because we did not carry our religion far enough and allow it to permeate the innermost details of daily experience, we encountered seemingly unsolvable problems of sickness, of lack, and other forms of inharmony. It was not an uncommon sight to see a member of our family return from church, go promptly to bed and call for some strong medicine to enable her to overcome a severe headache caused by overwrought emotions. We knew not in those days that emotionalism was the product of the carnal mind, and not of the divine Mind, and that the simple, sweet message of Christ Jesus should heal headaches and still the turbulent emotions. In fact the good news brought by Christian Science to a suffering world is that a scientific understanding of the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth can begin this very day to untangle our snarls and find answers to our many human problems; that Christianity must not only save men from a future hell, but from a present hell—the hell of sickness, lack, fear, hate and all its unlovely etceteras; that heaven, the reign of harmony, is possible in ever-increasing degree here and now.

An Instance of Jesus Healing

Let us consider for a moment one of the many examples given us in the Scriptures of Jesus' simple, and yet to our sense marvelous handling of a problem of sickness. Take one of his early healings as recorded in Luke's gospel. He is besought to help the mother of Simon's wife, who is seemingly gravely ill. Apparently the Master makes no inquiries as to the symptoms, does not ask for the cause of the malady, nor does he desire to take her temperature or feel her pulse. Let us see what happened, as recorded by Luke. "And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and ministered unto them." There was no period of convalescence, no gradual abating of the fever, nor slow recovery of the strength, and the great Healer did not caution her about her diet and warn her not to eat too much. "Immediately she arose and ministered unto them!" In the records of its four thousand years medicine cannot find such an astounding cure of fever wrought through any of its material methods. And yet Christ Jesus did not one material thing. He rebuked the fever—the fever, please notice, and not the woman. Now a word is only the audible expression of a thought; hence that which brought about this remarkable healing was wholly mental—in other words, it was something which the Master thought or understood.

How Did Jesus Heal the Sick?

This mighty understanding we see rebuking unclean spirits, healing epilepsy and all manner of disease; we see it stilling storms; enable Jesus to walk on the water, to feed the multitude, and even to raise the dead. Perhaps the saddest and most grievous error which scholastic theology makes is the relegating of these demonstrations of Jesus' control over evil and materiality to the realm of the miraculous. Theology excuses its failure to do these works on the ground that Jesus was God, and his acts therefore superhuman; notwithstanding the fact that the Master plainly said that of himself he could do nothing, that it was the Father dwelling in him that did the works, and that those who truly believed on him (understood him) would be able to do the things that he did and even greater things. Therefore the all-important question before Christian people today is, Can we as professed followers of the Master do the works which he did? Can we think his thoughts today, and begin to solve our problems by his method? What was it that Jesus thought or understood when he rebuked fevers, stilled storms, overcame lack, and subdued materiality?

Mrs. Eddy's Healing Experiences

These questions began to form themselves in the thought of Mary Baker Eddy at an early age. She was a deeply religious child, and has written that she would listen with joy to the assurance of her spiritually-minded mother that God was able to raise her up from sickness (Science and Health, p. 359). And she not only had proofs of this with herself, but on one occasion when a mere slip of a girl she subdued an insane man. It seems that an escaped lunatic rushed into the schoolyard where little Mary Baker was playing. The man was violent, brandishing above his head a club. The children fled in terror—all but Mary Baker. She walked quietly up to him and took his hand. Instantly his manner changed. The arm with the club dropped to his side, and he walked with her quietly to the gate. In later years, but before the light of Christian Science had streamed in its fulness upon her thought, a woman brought her child to Mrs. Eddy, laid it on her knees, and begged her to ask God to cure its blindness. "Mrs. Eddy has stated that she lifted her thought to God and returned the child to its mother, assuring her that God is able to keep His children. The mother looked at the child's eyes and they were healed." (The Life of Mary Baker Eddy by Sibyl Wilbur, p. 70).

The Discovery of Christian Science

It can be seen plainly that the idea of Christian healing had been budding throughout Mrs. Eddy's earthly experience, and therefore it was perfectly natural years after, when she found herself near the gates of death, again to turn her thoughts toward spiritual aid. She called for the Bible and opened to the ninth chapter of Matthew. As she read the story of the healing of the man sick of the palsy, the great truth for which she had been searching all her life began to dawn upon her thought. She began to touch the hem of the garment of the healing Christ, and to glimpse the answer to the age-old question, "What is truth?" In that glorious moment, and in the months and years of consecrated searching and praying that followed, there was unfolded to Mrs. Eddy Jesus' method of healing, what Jesus must have thought and understood and practiced. In proof of this she not only found herself well, but with this understanding she was able to heal others. In fact, many of Mrs. Eddy's demonstrations of healing are as remarkable as those which are recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. Of such healings she speaks in her writing very briefly and modestly, but we find that cancer, consumption, hip disease, insanity, the morphine and opium habits, and many other forms of sin and sickness all went down speedily before her realization of the might and glory of the Word of God.

The Christian Science Textbook

Then she set about sharing with the world her discovery, and in the textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and in what are now called her lesser writings, we find revealed the Science by which Jesus, the apostles and the prophets unquestionably did their mighty works. The best Christian Science lecture that could possibly be delivered would consist simply in reading to you from these inspired books; but the Bible and Mrs. Eddy's writings should be studied, pondered and prayed over rather than given only the hasty consideration possible in the few moments allotted for this lecture. If any who listen to this message are led to become sincere students of these God-inspired writings, our time today will have been well spent; for the man, woman or child who is willing to study Mrs. Eddy's works and begin to put into practice the truths he learns therein, stands indeed at the threshold of a new life. In Science and Health (p. 224) we read: "A higher and more practical Christianity, demonstrating justice and meeting the needs of mortals in sickness and in health, stands at the door of this age, knocking for admission. Will you open or close the door upon this angel visitant, who cometh in the quiet of meekness, as he came of old to the patriarch at noonday?"

"What Is Truth"

On the flyleaf of the textbook Mrs. Eddy has quoted these familiar words of Christ Jesus, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Here is the rule left by the Master Metaphysician for the solving of every problem of human experience. All these years it has stood and all these years have mortals looked on it and then passed it by, uttering again Pilate's plaint, But what is truth? If therefore this Christian Science textbook unlocks that great treasure-house of spiritual understanding, the Bible, and reveals the answer to this question "What is truth?" is it not well called "the Key to the Scriptures?"

The Basis of Christian Science

Webster defines the word "truth" as the "real state of things; fact; reality; actual being or nature." Now in order to find the "real state of things" and man's "actual being or nature" Mrs. Eddy very properly leads thought to the contemplation of the opening chapter of the Bible. The chapter in the Christian Science textbook entitled "Genesis" contains without doubt the most remarkable spiritual interpretation of Scripture extant. It emphasizes the fact that in the first and second chapters of Genesis are to be found two separate and distinct records of creation; the first dealing with the spiritual, real creation of God, and the second setting forth an allegory illustrative of a material conception of God and man. On the facts of being set forth in the first chapter, however, the Christian Scientist takes his stand.

The Goodness of Creation

What a glorious picture of creation is drawn in this opening chapter of the Old Testament! No evil is here, no fear, no sickness, sin, nor death; but as each object of God's handiwork appears, we read that "God saw that it was good." How could it be otherwise, when the very name of the creator, God, means in the Anglo-Saxon, good! Now Jesus has taught us that God is Spirit, the opposite of the material, and Science and Health amplifies this with the statement that Spirit must be Mind, the all-knowing intelligence. So in the first chapter of Genesis we find that the creator, Infinite Mind or Spirit, which is infinitely good, is creating man and the universe like Himself. The great first cause, being good, the effect must be good. We read: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth. . . And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good."

Spiritual Versus Material Creation

"But," may interpose some one at this point, "does not this refer to the Adam-man mentioned in the next chapter?" Let the Scriptures answer this query. We read that Adam was formed of the dust of the ground, was material, and became a living (material) soul, apparently capable of knowing good and evil; whereas the man of the first chapter is not material but mental, spiritual, for he is made in the likness of God, Spirit, Mind, and has been given dominion over all things. These two records of creation are as far apart as the poles.

The Adam-Dream

There is to be found in the second chapter of Genesis, a simple statement that apparently has been overlooked by theologians and Bible scholars all these years, a statement, however, of vast import, for it tells us in a few words all we need to know about Adam and materiality. The verse reads: "But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground."

And then with the coming of a mist appeared material man, capable of sinning, being sick, and dying. In Science and Health (p. 523) Mrs. Eddy describes this mist as "mystification," the opposite of understanding. So, while the man of the first chapter of Genesis proceeds from God, the all-knowing Mind, the Adam-man comes with mystification, and is formed of dust. Soon we read that a deep sleep falls upon Adam, and here is another point that many have overlooked: there is no mention of the fact that Adam ever awakened! So in the textbook (p. 306) Mrs. Eddy refers to material sense as the "Adam-dream," in which all mankind seems to be enmeshed, and from which it needs to be awakened.

The Adam and Eve Allegory

At this point some one may ask, "So the Christian Scientist discards entirely the second chapter of Genesis?" Not at all. As stated before, he regards it as a remarkable allegory, depicting the results of dwelling in the mist of material sense, rather than in the sunlight of divine Truth. How marvelously does this narrative parallel the experiences of mortals today! Truly mortal man's origin is shrouded in mist, in ignorance. He knows not why or whence he comes, nor whither he goes. The serpent, evil, subtly suggests that he is sick or unhappy or poverty-stricken, or is in bondage to sin, and when he eats of the fruit of this suggestion, his eyes seem closed to spiritual sense, and open only to the arguments of error. Thus does he allow the mesmerism of the serpent, evil, to drive him out of his garden of Eden. No, the Christian Scientist finds many grand, helpful lessons in the Adam and Eve allegory; but he never confuses this story with the scientifically spiritual account of creation found in the first chapter of Genesis, where harmony reigns, where man is Godlike, and all creation is good.

Seeing the Truth About Man

In the book of Ecclesiastes, the distinction between God's man and the material concept is clearly drawn, where we read, "Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have sought out many inventions." A little child had listened to the reading of that verse, and it had impressed him greatly. Shortly after he found his grandmother had taken to her bed, and seemed to be quite ill. The little fellow appeared perplexed for a time, but finally went to the bed and said gravely: "Grandmother, don't you know that God made you up right? He did not make you up wrong!" This then is the glorious truth that mortals are learning in Christian Science: that mankind need only turn from the mist—the evidence of the material senses—to the great spiritual facts of being as stated in the first chapter of Genesis, to find the truth which maketh free. Mrs. Eddy writes in Science and Health (p. 171): "Through discernment of the spiritual opposite of materiality even the way through Christ, Truth, man will reopen with the key of divine Science the gates of Paradise which human beliefs have closed, and will find himself unfallen, upright, pure and free, not needing to consult almanacs for the probabilities either of his life or of the weather, not needing to study brainology to learn how much of a man he is."

The Origin of Evil

Here the question may be raised, "If you insist that the truth about man is that he is spiritual and not material, where does this material or Adam-sense of things come from?" When Christian Science states that material sense is only another name for the Adam-dream, it says all that there is to be said on the subject. One does not analyze a dream, one merely awakens out of it; and when one is thoroughly awake, he pursues his dream-phantom no further. The question as to the seeming origin of evil can be answered therefore only by spiritual awakening and growth in understanding. When one has a clear-cut proof of healing in Christian Science; when some picture of discord which has seemed so real and powerful has faded into nothingness before the blaze of Truth, then and not until then will this question be satisfactorily answered. Along this line an almost humorous passage of Scripture is to be found in the book of Job. You remember there was a day when the sons of God were supposed to present themselves before the Lord, and the record states that Satan came also among them. Then the Lord says to Satan, "Whence comest thou?" Hear the illuminating response, "From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it!" Here evil betrays its emptiness and powerlessness. It has no law, no source, no reason for existing, no object. It is as Jesus said in his ringing denunciation, "A murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in (it)."

Calling Evil a Lie

Here then is the Christian Scientist's warrant for denominating evil a lie, a fraudulent sense, and never the product of a loving and all-wise Father. This does not mean, however, that the intelligent Christian Scientist airily waves evil to one side, and says, "Oh, there is no sin, so why worry about it?" He is taught to handle the serpent of sin by bringing it out from its hiding place, seeing that it confers no satisfaction, and then turning from it with loathing, if not with tears of repentance. In no one thing does Christ Science prove itself more divine than in its combined sternness and compassion in its treatment of sin. We read in the textbook, "Expose and denounce the claims of evil and disease in all their forms, but realize no reality in them" (p. 447). Ah, there is the task difficult to the average mortal, accustomed as he is to according power and reality to evil, and condemnation to the sinner rather than the sin. Yet nothing short of this can be termed true Christian healing of sin.

An Example of Jesus' Healing of Sin

Take for example Jesus' healing of the woman taken in adultery. The self-righteous scribes and Pharisees endeavor to secure from the Master endorsement of their hard rule of "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth." But he stoops and writes on the ground, making no reply. Finally in response to their insistent demands for an expression of his views, he says very simply, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." And again he leans forward and with his finger traces words in the sand. Tradition has it that Jesus wrote the secret sins of the accusers, and they one by one stole quietly away when their evil doings were uncovered. Is it not comforting to note, at this point, that the Master wrote these sins in sand instead of chiseling them in a rock? Then the Scripture tells us that he lifted up himself and saw none but the woman, and then delivered that message of compassion and healing that has rung down the centuries. "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more." What did Jesus see when he "lifted up himself?" Certainly not a sinning, weak, imperfect daughter of Adam, but the sinless, spotless image of God which had just seemed hidden by the Adam-mist, and his recognition of the truth of being dispelled the false picture and set the captive free. Having discerned in the woman's thought true repentance and turning from sin, the Master unsaw the evil; in other words, he separated man from evil, and thus took away its seeming power.

Separating Evil From Man

A few years ago there appeared in one of our periodicals an illustration that will bear repeating. A woman whose childhood had been spent in a country where wild beasts frequently came near her dwelling told of a curious plaything some children had. It was a large snake, and was quite harmless, the children finding great sport in picking it up and winding it about their bodies. It seems that the snake could not crush an object within its toils unless at the same time it could attach itself to another object such as a post or a tree. How like the argument of the one evil is this! We moment we allow the serpent of sin to attach itself to a brother or sister, at that moment does it seem to have power. If, on the other hand, we refuse to see it as personal, as attached to person, or having anything to do with man, we render it impotent, harmless, and ripe for destruction. What joyous, harmonious work in their homes, their offices, and their churches may Christian Scientists expect to see when they awaken to the privilege and necessity of detaching evil from their brotherman! While of course no Christian Scientist can give another what is called a treatment without the other's knowledge and consent, he can, nevertheless, live so close to God, and keep his thought so filled with the glorious truths of the first chapter of Genesis, that the moment he is tempted to believe that the serpent of sin or disease is attaching itself to a brother, he will speedily relegate such suggestion to the nothingness from whence it came. In the presence of such Christly thinking, evil flees, and harmony is manifested as surely today as in Christ Jesus' time.

Bearing Witness to the Truth

Let the right thinker be not dismayed because he seems to be many times hopelessly in the minority. The Scripture tells us that a thousand shall flee at the rebuke of one—a thousand Adam-concepts of sin, sickness and discord shall be routed by one clear, consecrated declaration of the truth. Jesus summed up his ministry in this terse sentence, "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth." He did not say that he had come to fight the great power of sin, nor the reality of matter, but had come to bear witness to the facts of being. And when he bore this faithful witness, the Adam-mist of sickness and error was dissipated. Here is a comforting message to the burdened Christian Science practitioner. Let him not be bowed down with the cares and woes of his patients, and the weight of terrifying and so-called incurable diseases. His is not the work of the material physician, righting this germ and struggling with that untoward condition. He is called to a case only to bear faithful witness to the truth, to resist the temptation to believe that there is any other than the beautiful harmonious creation of the first chapter of Genesis, and to know that all that really is happening is the glorification of God, good. Being engaged, therefore, only in the work of witnessing, he is able to cast all burdens and responsibilities at the feet of the Father, and, as the hymn says, "bear a song away." Such a holy realization inevitably uncovers evil, brings it to the surface, and enables one to relegate it to the scrap-heap of oblivion.

A Remarkable Healing of Sin

Let me cite here a case of healing of sin, thoroughly authenticated, which shows how this understanding of Christian Science enables one practically to lift the burden of sin and condemnation from his brother-man, and set him free. A few years ago, when Christian Scientists began holding services in a certain large state prison, there was confined in that prison one of the most desperate and feared convicts in the state. We shall call him John Henry, as his own name might be remembered by many. He became so ungovernable in the prison and attempted so many escapes, that it became necessary to place him in solitary confinement where he remained a number of years. The two Christian Scientists who acted as readers at the prison services heard of this prisoner and asked permission of the captain of the guard to see him. This was freely granted, and the Scientists accompanied by the captain, went into the dungeon. There sat John Henry, looking more like a savage beast than a human being. The Scientists looking past the Adam-appearance, and endeavoring to know the only man there was, was the expression of good, addressed him kindly and added, "You have a friend here in the captain." John Henry did not raise his eyes. "I have not a friend in the world!" he muttered bitterly. "Ah, but you have," replied one of the Scientists, "and I can prove it to you. The captain is your friend, we are your friends, because we want to help you." A friend! That magic word brought probably the first touch of love that starved and hardened heart had known for years, and tears came into John Henry's eyes. The Scientists, being good metaphysical gardeners, knew that the seed of Truth had been planted, so they departed, leaving some Christian Science literature for him to read.

Almost immediately the guards about the prison began to notice a wonderful change in John Henry's thought. The following Sunday he was allowed to come to the Christian Science service held in the prison. There he heard read from the Bible and Science and Health healing statements about God and man, with never a word of condemnation for the sinner, but only condemnation for the sin. He heard that glorious declaration of the Apostle John, read at the close of every Christian Science Sunday service, "Beloved, now are we the sons of God!" The Adam-mist began fading away, and the child of God began to appear. Within six months this desperate criminal had been transformed into one of the most trusted men in the prison.

I had the privilege sometime after of lecturing in this institution, and was talking to the men about the parable of the Prodigal Son. After describing the Prodigal's plight, when "he would feign have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him," I said to my audience, "Men, where was that man?" A clear strong voice answered me, "In hell!" It was the voice of John Henry. He knew all about it for he had been there. But there was triumph and joy in John Henry's voice, for he had found through Chritsian Science his way out of hell. The prodigal had come back to his Father's home. About a year and a half after John Henry had first heard of Christian Science, the warden of the prison sent word to him that he was ready to recommend him for a parole. But John Henry would not accept it. The walls of the institution were not prison walls to him! His prison-house had been sin and ignorance, and Truth had brought him forth from this dungeon long since. So today he is still serving his sentence, and is in the eyes of men still a convict; but one of the freest, most joyous sons of the King I have ever met is this same John Henry! He has elected to stay where he is, as he feels he can be of more help to his brother-man in this prison than out of it He is now able to do healing work for his fellow-inmates, and is showing many of them their way out of bondage, out of the belief that there is any real satisfaction in sin. After all, what more is there to sin? Mrs. Eddy writes in "Miscellaneous Writing" (p. 90), "The power of sin is the pleasure in sin. Take away this pleasure, and you remove all reality from its power."

The Cause of Disease

Let us now consider the application of the truth of being as revealed in Christian Science to a case of sickness. In the first place, the Scientist does not ask to see the patient's tongue, but to discern what is in his thought. He has learned in the textbook that "fear, ignorance, or sin" is the cause of all disease (Science and Health, p. 411), so he goes at once to the root of the difficulty. The material physician becomes greatly concerned over the presence of this germ or of that infection; but does he see the germs of fear, of despair, of heartache, or condemnation that are the actual cause of the discord? As for surgery, only the sword of Spirit, the Word of God, can truly remove the poison-cells of hate and fear from the human consciousness. Thus it is that the man healed in Christian Science is not only improved materially, but is inevitably lifted higher spiritually.

An Instance of Healing of Sickness

The following case of healing came under my observation some time ago, and illustrates how the spiritual idea of being comes like an angel visitant to the sufferer, and awakens him to the glorious realization of his freedom as the child of God.

A woman had been battling for some days with a condition which physicians might have called intermittent fever. She seemed quite ill, but she and her husband were Christian Scientists and were bravely fighting it out along spiritual lines, and resorting to no material remedies. The fever would come and go, come and go, and just when they felt the ill was conquered, back it would seem to come with increased violence. Both husband and wife were clinging to the truth of being and endeavoring to speak to the disease "as one having authority," but there was something lacking. They repeated words, but the realization of the truth of their statements was wanting, and discouragement threatened to overwhelm them. One day, after a rather encouraging morning, the husband came home to find the wife again prostrated, her cheeks aflame with the fever and crying as though her heart would break. "Oh," she said, "I don't believe I shall ever be healed!" The husband sat beside her for a few moments and then a light broke in upon his thought. "I know what is needed in this family," he declared. "We have been saying words, only words! We have been making these great statements about God and man, and have not thanked God that they are true. What we need here is more of the medicine of gratitude!" "I do not see anything to be grateful for," said the wife, still weeping. "Then," said the husband, "suppose we begin counting the blessings which have come to us since we have known Christian Science." Proof after proof of God's care and protection was cited, but no sound came from the bed. "Now," continued the husband, "let us thank God for the healings we know others have had." A voice from the bed joined him in this, for it was easy to remember other people's healings. "And now we come to our greatest cause for gratitude," said the husband. "Let us thank God, as did Jesus at the tomb of Lazarus, that the Father has heard us. Let us thank Him that we are whole and free now, no matter what the material senses are reporting. Thank Him that the law of good is the only law governing us, and that this picture which has seemed so real is only a part of the Adam-dream. Let us thank Him that this error is really not going on. Thank Him that we are awake!" By this time the wife was working with him, and after possibly 15 minutes he put his hand on the brow that had ben so hot. It was moist. The eyes were bright. The fever had gone, never to return. Gratitude, therefore, may be said to be the sign that one truly has reached the realization of the truth which he declares.

The Healing of "Financial Sickness"

Let us now consider the case of a man "financially sick," or who may be said to have "a sick business." Can this spiritual understanding of creation help him? Even so. Possibly every business man will agree that a higher, happier, and more hopeful view of things would work wonders in the business world. No realm is more susceptible to mental influences than the so-called business world. Superstition, fear, doubt and panic find easy access thereto, and if not checked and nullified by the action of Truth, these may work much mischief with the individual, the community, or the nation. Should it be thought unreasonable that the Word of God, the reflection of infinite Mind, which in Jesus' time stilled storms and raised the dead, should be able in our day to quiet fear, restore confidence, bring about harmony in an organization, and promote and bring to success a righteous business venture? Christ Jesus once said, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." The reason for the failure of many a business man lies in the fact that instead of being lifted up from the earth, as the son of the King should be, he is wearing still the livery of Adam, and carrying about an atmosphere of gloom and fear and limitation that repels rather than attracts his brother-man.

"What Hast Thou in the House"

Have you ever read in the Bible the story of the poverty-stricken widow who, as creditors were about to take her sons to be bondsmen, appealed to Elisha for help? You will recall that the prophet meets her appeal in quite an unexpected and unusual manner. He says, "What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house?" She replies that she has nothing save a pot of oil. He then tells her to secure as many vessels as she can, go into her house, shut the door, and begin pouring out the oil. She is obedient, and in the great manifestation of abundance that follows, every vessel is filled. Here may be seen an instance of the marvelous light which the study of Christian Science throws upon the Scriptures. We learn in Christian Science that "house" may be likened to one's consciousness, while "oil" typifies "consecration; charity; gentleness; prayer; heavenly inspiration" (Science and Health, p. 592). Therefore when we are confronted with the argument of lack, hard times, fear, loss, and so on, and we turn to Christian Science for relief, the first message is, Look within! What have we in our mental homes? The first temptation is to say bitterly, "Nothing!" Ah, but have we not a little oil that we can begin pouring? Cannot we pour forth a little more charity to our business associates, a little more gentleness in the home, a little more prayer and consecration to the heavenly Father? To our amazement we find that the difficulty was not from without at all; it was within. Some one has aptly said, "The hole through which you give is the hole through which you get." If we have provided no outlet for the streams of love and gratitude, how then can one expect a great inflow of good? The Scripture gives us a definite law on this subject. It says, "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse. . . and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

The Father's Business

One often hears a business man who is a Christian Scientist sigh to get away from material business, as he calls it, and give all his time to holier work. It is well to remind each other that whatever enterprise is meeting one of the world's legitimate needs may truly be denominated "the Father's business," be such work the making of shoes, or the healing of the sick. Was there ever a time when the Science of Christianity was more needed in the marts of trade than today? Have men and women practicing Christian Science in business ever been more necessary? Were there ever such opportunities for healing hate and greed, for stilling fear, for promoting healthy, loving relations between employer and employe, as exist today? What a joyous business is the Father's business! Divine Mind is the manager, the counselor, the unfailing source of supply. Man is not engaged in making a living. His living is already made, for God is his Life, ever-present, full and free. Just as a ray of light may be said to be in the business of expressing the sun, so man's purpose is the eternal glorifying and expressing of good. This cannot mean a settling into a supine inactivity, but a rousing to the greatest activity one has ever known—an activity devoid of fear, and joyous in service. This may involve a frequent consultation with the Head of the firm, a listening for His voice, and a clinging to His hand; and how burdens roll from the shoulders of the business man who thus keeps in close touch with the great Employer! A little Australian lad, out for a walk with his mother, was attacked by a rather savage dog. In fact the dog's jaws closed about the lad's leg. Instead of screaming the little fellow said calmly, addressing the animal, "What do you think you are doing?" Instantly the dog released the leg and slunk away. The child raised a beaming face to his mother. "Mummie," he said, "isn't it great not to be afraid of dogs!" And the man or woman in business, clinging to the hand of Love divine, and leaning on the arm of omnipotence, can say again and again, "Dear Father, isn't it great not to be afraid any more?" When men and nations learn the lesson of seeking and relying on the one Mind, when employers learn it, may we not expect to see the solving of the problems of the individual, the state, yes, the world?

Right Thinking the Solution

Thinking men of every shade of creed and politics agree that in a quickening of the world's relisious or spiritual sense lies the salvation of the perplexed and war-weary human family. And there they stop. And there Christian Science begins, for it alone offers that practical salvation which begins with the individual's thinking, and in renovating and spiritualizing this is destined to save both men and nations. Right thinking, therefore, is the remedy; and when you have a right-thinking individual or a right-thinking nation, you find health and harmony and peace.

The Christian Science Practitioner

"But," may say some one at this point, "I know of a case that Christian Science did not save. How do you account for that?" The textbook gives the answer very simply and directly. It says: "If you fail to succeed in any case, it is because you have not demonstrated the life of Christ, Truth, more in your own life,—because you have not obeyed the rule and proved the Principle of divine Science" (p. 149). Christian Scientists admit with regret, but not discouragement, their failure to measure up to the Christ-ideal in all cases. However, they are overwhelmingly grateful for the progress already made, and ask mankind to be patient while they strive for that Mind "which was also in Christ Jesus." Possibly this is a good reason why those under Christian Science treatment are called "patients;" the sufferers are asked to be patient while their practitioners strive for that reflection of infinite Love which will melt away the mist of mortal belief and reveal the harmonious man of God's creating.

The Responsibility of the Patient

"Then the patient has no responsibility, no particular work to do?" may ask some inquirer. Indeed he has! Suppose a ship has gone on the rocks several hundred feet from shore, and a survivor clings to a masthead of the submerged vessel, calling for help. Then suppose a rope is thrown to him by one on the land eager to rescue him. The man on the wreck apparently takes hold of the rope, but pull as he may the friend on shore cannot budge him. Soon he discovers that while the man has one hand on the rope with the other he is clutching the mast. The rescuer calls out, "Let go that wreck! Put both hands on the rope, and I can pull you in!" Rather reluctantly the other obeys. But soon again there is trouble. The rope slips from his hands, and with difficulty he regains it. This time it appears that he is trying to carry ashore some cherished possession—a bundle of valuable garments—and in his eagerness to cling to it he loses the rope. "Drop everything and hold to the rope if you would be saved!" shouts the rescuer. Again, reluctantly he obeys, and soon is brought safely to land. To his great joy he finds in the home of his rescuer better garments than those he was compelled to give up. Here unquestionably is food for thought. Let those under Christian Science treatment ask themselves: Am I clinging to the wreck? Are both hands on the rope of spiritual understanding, or have I one hand on the belief that this or that medicine or operation may save me? Have I cast from me the entangling mental garments of self-pity, self-love, and self-will? Am I trying to take with me into the kingdom of heaven some cherished opinions, some preconceived notions of which I have been rather proud, or some material indulgence? Be not afraid to rid yourselves of these unlovely hindrances to progress; for divine Love has more beautiful mental garments awaiting you than you dream of. If the patient prays for humility, receptivity and teachableness, and the practitioner strives for the Mind of Christ, then may they say in the language of Paul, "Who can be against us?"

The Christian Scientist Not Dismayed

Picture, if you will, a life-saver heroically battling with the waves in the effort to pull ashore a shipwrecked man or woman. Then imagine if you can others standing on the shore, and instead of encouraging the rescuer and assisting in the grand work of rescue, jeering and taunting the rescuer, criticizing his methods and predicting disaster. A rather unthinkable picture, is it

SPORT -O- GRAMS

By FRANCIS W. READ

IT TAKES TWO MEN TO COMPLETE A PASS

There is a tendency among football writers and critics to give all of the credit for a successful forward pass to the player completing the play. By this remark it is not meant that the man who receives the ball does not deserve cerit for the play; on the contrary, his part is absolutely essential if the pass is to succeed, but it must be remembered that his work is made possible only by the man passing the ball. It seems that the man who passes gets little or no credit for the success of the pass these days, while the player receiving the ball gets a great deal of praise. This was demonstrated in the Glendale-Citrus game last Friday. The Elliot to Horri and Elliot to Walton combination worked successfully six times in the last quarter. In every one of these passes the man receiving the ball got the most of the credit. Elliot's part in the plays was not so spectacular, but nevertheless it was essential to their completion.

The real part played in the pass by the man passing the ball was impressed upon the writer at the Whittier-Southern Branch game Saturday. Time after time the Cubs failed on passes, not because of the inability of the men to catch the oval, but because of the inaccuracy of the throws. Given the best team in the world in receiving the pigskin on the run, without a good passer, you cannot play the passing game.

CLINE NEEDS A KICKER

Jimmy Cline, mentor of the Southern Branch eleven, seems to have a real aggregation of football players at the Cub institution. They showed up well in the Whittier game, in fact they outplayed the Poets in every way, losing the affair on breaks. One fact stands out, however, in the minds of all those who attended the game. Cline has not yet been able to successfully install the Andy Smith game at the Branch. He lacks the two essentials necessary to play the Smith style of football, a good kicker and an equally good passer. If Cline had Gordon White, star of the Cub eleven last year back this season, he would have a championship football aggregation. White could kick circles around any player in the conference last year. Unfortunately for Cline, White is at Berkeley this season. As yet the Bruin coach has not succeeded in installing the open game, but perhaps it is too early to say that he has failed in the attempt. Saturday's game was the first conference affair of the season for the Cubs. Several of their best men, on nearly every play, including Captain Walt Westcott, were out with injuries. The season may bring some more surprises out at the Vermont avenue institution.

SILENT SIGNALS

After hearing for several weeks about the famous silent signals of the Whittier College team, the writer had a chance to see them in the Cub-Poet game on Saturday, and was not so very much impressed with them. The team members gather in a semi-circle before each play for a few seconds, and then forms on the scrimmage line. They go through shifts and get into their positions as the ball is snapped back. Never a number is called. The main trouble with the silent signals Saturday was that the Poets got them so mixed up that they had to try them several times

HACKENSCHMIDT WRESTLES POLK IN A. C. BOUTS

MAIN EVENT—WRESTLING
John Hackenschmidt of Glendale vs. Joe Polk, champion of the A. E. F.

BOXING
Freddie Klagge vs. Cecil Taylor, 108 pounds.
Jack Carr vs. Battling Chick, 108 pounds.
Jimmy Racer vs. Fred Rose.

John Hackenschmidt and Joe Polk will furnish the main attraction at the Glendale Athletic club bouts tonight. The two wrestlers will stage a real battle in the local arena this evening, and from all indications it should prove some scrap. Three first-class boxing bouts are scheduled as preliminaries to the main event.

Hack is well known to the people of Glendale, as he is a resident of this city. On Labor Day he wrestled Bull Montana to a draw in the Press auditorium. Polk is from the east, but is at present residing in Hollywood, while acting in the movies. He won the A. E. F. title in the Paris stadium in 1919. The two grapplers were introduced in the arena at the fights last Tuesday night.

INTER-CLASS MATCHES START

First Match Will Be Held Next Thursday Afternoon

The interclass tournaments at Glendale High begin next Thursday, when the freshmen team will play the juniors.

Four single matches will first be played by the four men on each team. Then there will be two double matches. With all these matches, each tournament will take up quite a bit of time.

A very interesting match will be played this afternoon at 3:30 between Bob Laird and Tommy Woods. This will probably be a very close match, as both of the men are very strong players. Last year when they played, it was a very close match, but Tommy came out on top. Laird has been practicing a good deal during the summer and is a great deal stronger than he was last year. Tommy has been playing nearly every afternoon and shows up very well, having all of his old form.

Wienie Maxwell won from Brick Robinson in a very closely contested match which was played last Thursday. The score of 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 does not indicate the closeness of the match. Both players have a great deal of speedy strokes and place these with great accuracy.

The last tournament of the series will be the one between the juniors and seniors. This will probably be one of the most exciting of all. The senior team will be as follows: Woods or Laird, first man, with loser as second; Garner third and Scoville fourth. The junior team is as follows: Lee Osborne, first; Kenny Lee second, Francis Hardey third, Gregory Haskins fourth.

The sophomore team will consist of: Maxwell first, Robinson second, Tounsend or Case third and fourth.

p. m.; Seniors vs. Juniors, Nov. 1, 5 a. m.

These games will all be played by both first and second teams. The Juniors and Sophomores have each won a game.

DYNAMITERS WILL USHER AT BIG GAME

A rather unusual opportunity is offered to 50 young men from Glendale Union high school, who will usher at the big U. C. vs. U. S. C. football game, to be held at the Los Angeles Coliseum on November 10.

Seeing that high school students were to be used exclusively as ushers at the Coliseum, Paul Cunningham immediately got in touch with Mr. Judson who has charge of the seating arrangment at this stupendous game and arranged that 50 boys from our school should be used. The football teams have been favored with the job.

This will be one of the biggest games that the fellows as a body have attended this year or in previous years. One who has not seen the Coliseum can picture the size of it, by learning that 1200 fellows will be used by ushers. This means that at each of the 40 sections, 30 fellows will usher.

Glendale fellows will be required to take two sections in charge. At 9 o'clock on November 10, these fellows will go over to the Coliseum and receive instructions. They will be drilled what to do when the big crowd comes.

NOTRE DAME WILL NOT COME WEST THIS YEAR

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 30.—Let the representative team of the Pacific coast extend to the University of Notre Dame an invitation to play on the coast Christmas day and Knute K. Rockne's master machine will meet them there in an East-West game. That is believed to be the hidden story, carried between the lines of the official statement issued yesterday afternoon by the athletic board of control, following its session at the university.

The statement read:

"The faculty ruling passed two years ago relative to the Notre Dame game to be played on the West coast stipulated that only the Tournament of Roses game could be considered. Offers received this year from Los Angeles and other cities are still so indefinite that no reason is seen for rescinding the faculty ruling."

BOWLING

HOLLYWOOD TEAM DEFEATS NISLES

The Hollywood Storage team won the odd game from the Nisle Clothes shop in last night's match in the foothill bowling league. Roder was the big shot, getting 616.

Thursday the Fraternal League will open with two games. The league is composed of teams representing the various fraternal orders in Glendale. Eight teams are entered. The opening night will bring together the K. P. aggregation vs. the Sciots, and the Masons vs. the Modern Woodmen. Friday night the K. C. No. 1 will meet the American Legion, and the K. C. No. 2 will play the Odd Fellows. The games will be played at the Glendale Recreation Center Alleys. The score of last night's games:

THREE GAMES ON TAP IN SOUTHERN CAL. CONFERENCE

Oxy to Meet Whittier on Saturday, Cubs Play Sagehens at L. A.

Three redhot gridiron tilts are on tap in the Southern California conference this Saturday. Whittier and Occidental, the only two undefeated teams will come together at Whittier. The Pomona College Sagehens will journey down to Los Angeles to meet Jimmy Cline's Golden Cubs of the Southern Branch at Moore field, while Redlands comes to Pasadena to play Caltek. This card for Saturday's games is correct, although it differs from the one printed in one of the Los Angeles papers this morning. The games there listed were the ones slated for next week.

The Southern Branch-Pomona tilt should draw a large crowd of fans, as it is the only gridiron game in Los Angeles Saturday. With the Trojans resting up for the Golden Bears, the Cubs will be in the limelight this week. The Bruins are given the edge over Pomona, and should take the tilt. It is expected that Captain Walt Westcott will be back in the Cub lineup Saturday.

Occidental is favored to clean up on Whittier. The Tigers have played real fooball, winning earned victories, while breaks have given the Poets both of their wins. The Whittier team has made but five first downs in the course of the two conference games played to date. Nevertheless, Whittier is to be feared. Johns has been showing up good of late, and it is expected that Suggett will be back in the Poet line-up Saturday.

Caltek should trim Redlands by three touchdowns. The Engineers are a good team and will be raring to go after their week of rest. It is doubtful whether they will exert themselves, however, for Coach Stanton, having trimmed Pomona, is now pointed on the Oxy game on the 12th. It should be some contest.

GLENDALE HIGH TO CLASH WITH MONROVIA FRIDAY

Dynamiters Will Meet the Wildcats on Local Field

Coach Hayhurst's crew of Dynamiters will clash with the Monrovia Wildcats Friday afternoon on Moyse field. This is Glendale's third league tangle and is expected to be a "battle royal."

The Wildcats were the victors last year by a score of 12 to 7. Because of this the Red and Black gridders are out for revenge. In fact, the Black and Orange team has defeated Glendale two years straight. The prediction this year is that the tables will be completely turned.

During the past week the Dynamiter aggregation has been working hard with frequent scrimmages and tackling the dummy. "Pop" Hayhurst has been using the old "eagle eye" on some of the new plays which are rapidly developing into machine-like ground gainers.

During the first part of the season the line did not charge with as much ferocity and fight as they were capable of doing. So Coach Hayhurst has been plugging steadily at them until now the Monrovia backfield will have to take a ten yard start before they can make any yardage.

The backfield is also improving steadily. Elliott's running and passing, Ryan's line plunges, Walton's running around ends and Bud Elliott's snappy signal barking have been making the "practice watchers" sit up and take notice.

Another thing that helps to make a winning team. The substitutes are steadily plugging along and give the varsity boys a stiff scrimmage whenever the coach thinks it is advisable. A good string of substitutes is a valuable asset to any team. There are at least 30 fellows in the entire varsity squad.

SCHEDULE GIVEN IN VOLLEY BALL

The girls' volley ball tournament at the Glendale High school started Thursday, October 25, with the sophomore - freshman games and the junior-senior ones. A great interest is being taken by the girls in volley ball this year and all the class teams are exceptionally strong. Miss Shattuck, head coach, is very much pleased with the girls and the fine spirit they are showing in trying out for the teams. As soon as the interclass tournament is over the players for the first and second school teams will be chosen. The schedule for the class games is as follows: Freshmen vs. Juniors, October 30, 5 a. m.; Sophomores vs. Seniors, October 30, 3 p. m.; Freshmen vs. Seniors, November 1, 2

TAXPAYERS DUE TO PAY PENALTY FOR FALSEHOOD

Taxpayers returning incomplete or incorrect sales tax returns will be penalized from 5 to 25 cents, under an order received from Washington yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell.

Ten thousand motion picture theatres and other places of amusement, jewelers and in fact every mercantile house which sells taxable articles, are affected by the ruling.

When unsigned checks are submitted in payment of sales taxes and a properly signed check is not received prior to the expiration of the legal period of payment, a penalty of 5 percent will be imposed.

When a return received during the legal period is not properly executed and is returned to the taxpayer for his signature, the signature of a witness of execution of the jurat, and the necessary action is not taken by the taxpayer within a period of ten days, a 25 per cent penalty will be imposed if the corrected return when received is delinquent.

Where a taxpayer habitually submits improperly executed returns, maximum penalties will be asserted. Attention was called to the fact that a sales tax return must be sworn to by the taxpayer, except where the tax covered is not in excess of $10, it may be signed and acknowledged by two witnesses, instead of under oath. The oath on a return must be signed by an authorized person who should follow his name with a descriptive word showing his relation to the company or firm.

Collector Goodcell said that most of the incomplete returns were due to lack of signature of the taxpayer or of witnesses. Under the ruling the imposition of penalties is not left to the discretion of Collector Goodcell, but must be asserted in all cases coming within the scope of the order.

Recovery From Disturbance of Calamity Tests Relief Services of Red Cross

© INTERNATIONAL NEWS REEL

SAVING PROPERTY ON THE EDGE OF A GREAT FIRE WHILE RED CROSS WORKERS SERVE THE INJURED AND HOMELESS

Washington. — "Japan's earthquake calamity, with its toll of 103,000 dead, 125,000 injured, 235,000 missing and more than 2,000,000 homeless, will affect the equilibrium of the people of the empire for a long period," says Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross. "The aftereffect of disaster is far-reaching in its disturbing influences, which persons at a distance cannot visualize, however deeply they are moved to sympathetic action by first reports of extensive loss of life and property," he added. "The munificence of America in giving two-fold for Japan's relief was characteristic of our people and it serves to point out the lesson learned by the Disaster Relief Service of the Red Cross that the first estimates of destruction generally err on the side of conservatism."

As an example of the long period of recovery which follows disaster Judge Payne cited the forest fires in Minnesota. Many of the persons injured and impoverished in October, 1918, are receiving relief from the Red Cross Chapter at Duluth today—four years after that disaster. The operations undertaken by the Red Cross to rescue and relieve the victims in this instance also had a happy contributing result, for these activities led to the establishing of the Forest Fire Commission by Minnesota, empowered to protect the State's great forest reserves.

The 110 disasters in the United States during the year ended June 30, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross, resulted in 240 deaths, 991 persons injured, and property losses estimated at $20,710,000. The record shows nearly every section of the country had its disaster, from Maine to California, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. The victims sheltered, fed and clothed by the Red Cross numbered nearly 20,000. In the recent $10,000,000 fire which destroyed a large part of the residential section of Berkeley, Cal., pictured above, effective emergency service was given by hundreds of University of California students, who were quickly organized by Red Cross workers into safety battalions and did much to minimize loss of property and human suffering.

Disaster relief will ever be a foremost duty of the American Red Cross, Judge Payne points out, for calamity comes without warning, and the Red Cross must successfully meet the test of readiness for immediate relief operations wherever the call for services arises. "The American Red Cross is the outward expression, coined into action, of the hearts of the American people," says Judge Payne, who expresses confidence in the success of the membership Roll Call opening Armistice Day, November 11, and bespeaks his belief that the Red Cross would in this year's campaign maintain its numerical strength and recruit many thousands of new members among persons who had come to realize through recent world-stirring calamity that the Red Cross must carry on in peace time as promptly and effectually as in time of war.

Call Cotton Experts to Discuss Laws

[By Associated Press]

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 30.—Plans for obtaining uniform laws on cotton production, warehousing, rural credits and standardization of farm products in southern states will be outlined at a conference to be held at some southern city the latter part of November. Call for the conference has been made by Charles E. Baughman, Texas commissioner of markets and warehouses, who proposes the meeting.

Invitations have been sent by Commissioner Baughman to governors and agricultural officials of 15 states, and officials of a dozen states have signified their intention of attending. Mr. Baughman has brought together information regarding conditions in the various states on production of cotton and other crops, and this will be presented to the conference as a basis for working out uniform laws. He proposes that at the close of the conference an association on uniform agricultural laws be organized, the primary purpose of which will be to carry into effect the proposals of the conference. Laws covering different phases of agricultural and marketing problems will be worked out and presented to legislatures for passage.

"Cooperation between the states interested in a common industry must be brought about before agriculture will be placed on a paying basis," according to Mr. Baughman. "We need uniform laws in the southern states as a means of obtaining greater efficiency in growing and marketing crops and to insure greater stability in prices."

The states expected at the conference are Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Georgia and Texas.

MONTREAL, Quebec.—Captain S. Robinson, R. N. R., the hero of the Japanese disaster, who commanded the Empress of Australia when that ship was in Yokohama harbor at the time of the earthquake, has been fitly honored by the Canadian Pacific railway. He is to command the company's steamship, the Empress of Canada, when the ship leaves New York, January 30, on a world cruise.

SAYS HOSPITALS TEACH HEALTH, PROLONG LIFE

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30.—People of the United States and Canada are living longer because of means employed by hospitals to promote health, according to Asa S. Bacon of Chicago, president of the American Hospital association, who opened the twenty-fifth annual conference of hositpal executives, trustees and nurses here to day.

Mr. Bacon said that the thousands of people who pass through hospitals during a year become messengers of good health in their respective homes and communities, and thus spread the good work of the institutions.

"Hospitals make public health service possible and reduce the death rate in cities and towns," he continued. "Without the hospitals, physicians could not possibly make the great advances which are being recorded in medical science. Because of this steady advance of medical science, and the efficiency of hospitals, the average stay of patients in hospitals is 13 days less than it was 25 years ago when this association was started.

"At that time the cost of caring for a sick person was about the same as that of caring for a well person, plus the physicians' fees. Gradually the advance made in medical science called for the installation of laboratories with expensive equipment and high salaried persons in charge to aid the physicians in their work. Occupational therapy, social service, dietetics and other specialties were also added as departments of the hospitals to increase efficiency and decrease suffering.

"The high cost of running modern hospitals on the one hand and the limited financial resources of many whom we serve on the other, compels us to look to charitably minded persons in the community for help to finance the work. Every generation amasses more wealth than it needs, therefore it is a benefit to humanity that men and women bestow their wealth upon standardized hospitals of proven efficiency. It behooves us to keep the work of our institutions before such charitable persons to the end that health may be promoted and life be saved."

One of the features of the conference this year will be the enlarged educational exhibition covering two acres in the Milwaukee auditorium where scientific instruments and hospital equipment will be displayed.

VICTORIA, British Columbia—export shipments this month from Victoria mills will surpass all previous months of the year. Last month the shipments amounted to 8,000,000 feet ,but September figures will pass the August quota and are expected to exceed 10,000,000 feet.

TEN MILLION ILLITERATES HERE; MEANS GRAVE LOSS

By S. W. STRAUS
President American Society for Thrift.

TEN MILLION people in the United States who can neither read nor write! Twenty million illiterates and near-illiterates!

S. W. STRAUS

One finds these amazing statements in a recent survey of illiteracy conditions in the United States compiled by the Illiteracy Commission of the National Education Association. In view of the fact that our nation will soon devote an entire week to the special consideration of educational matters, it is well to have this concise statement of exact conditions placed before us at this time.

Perhaps no aspect of real national thrift is of greater significance from the standpoints alike of national duty and opportunity than this situation. In a general way the illiterate is out of the race. He doesn't count. His possibilities for personal success are negative. He adds little or nothing to the nation's economic welfare. Furthermore, as it is pointed out by the Illiteracy Commission, semi-barbaric conditions exist in illiterate sections. Moral standards are extremely low. The sanctity of the marriage vows is disregarded. So-called business is carried on through a crude system of barter and trade. Neither gold, silver nor paper money exists as a medium of exchange.

These points only suggest briefly some of the many national disadvantages of a large illiteracy population.

We give thought and attention to the development of our great natural resources. We are endeavoring in every way to develop our nation physically. But we are exemplifying a poor type of national thrift and enlightenment when we neglect the moral and material advantages that would accrue from a more intensive and comprehensive educational policy. Addison wrote: "The philosopher, the saint, the hero, the wise, the good, the great man very often lies concealed in a plebeian whom proper education might have disinterred and brought to light."

The material, mental and moral waste represented by twenty million illiterates and near-illiterates in the United States is beyond calculation.

TEXT OF CONTRACT FOR SEWER PLANS

Instrument Has Been Signed by Mayor, Now in Effect

This agreement, made and entered into this 18th day of October, 1923, by and between the City of Glendale, a municipal corporation of the state of California, party of the first part, and the Burns & McDonnell Engineering company of Los Angeles, California, and Kansas City, Missouri, party of the second part, hereinafter referred to as the company.

Item 1

That said company hereby agrees to furnish instruments and assistant help and make a survey of the city of Glendale, running such lines and levels as may be needed for the design of a complete system of sanitary sewers.

Item 2

After securing above information the said company agrees to make preliminary plans of said sewer system, showing location and size of outfall, mains and lateral connections, and locations of all manholes, flushtanks, lampholes and other appurtenances which may be necessary for a complete system.

Accompanying the plans of the sewer will be a preliminary estimate of the cost of each line, including outfalls and main trunk collectors or intercepting mains.

The said company will personally present the said report with estimates to the city council and explain all features of the proposed work, and further agrees to assist the city in a bond campaign for the purpose of voting the bonds for the construction of the improvements as adopted by the city. This will consist of furnishing information and data to local newspapers for articles covering all important features of the proposed improvements.

Item 3

After the construction of the proposed improvements have been authorized, the said company agrees to complete the final plans and details of the sewer system. This will include profiles of all outfalls, mains and laterals drawn to scale, showing size of sewer, depth of cutting and location of manholes, etc.

Specifications will be prepared describing in detail the material and construction work, giving instruction to bidders, lists of quantities and blank form of proposal for bidders use in bidding on construction work. Plans and specifications will also be furnished the bidders in sufficient quantities for their use.

The company will have a member of its firm attend the letting of the contract, to assist the city in the selection of the best materials adapted to the work, and further agree to make final tests and inspection of the work after the completion of the contract. Tests will be made to determine if the system is operating satisfactorily and if the plans and specifications have been complied with.

After contracts have been awarded for furnishing the material and the construction of work the said company agrees to furnish such competent and experienced supervising engineers as may be deemed necessary and advisable, who will remain constantly on the ground, furnish surveying instruments, stake out the work, give lines and grades, inspect all materials and construction in order to see that the material and construction comply with the plans and specifications. The said supervising engineers shall make out monthly estimates on the material furnished and work done and report to the city concerning the progress and character of the work.

The said company shall agree to start work on the collection of data and information immediately after the date of signing this contract; and to begin surveys and field work within seven days and complete the same as soon thereafter as is consistent with good work.

In consideration of performing the services enumerated above, the city of Glendale shall pay the Burns & McDonnell Engineering company an amount equal to 5% of the cost of said improvement, for which bonds are authorized, up to $1,000,000, and 2½% on such cost in excess of the $1,000,000 payments to be as follows:

The sum of $1500 at the time of the completion and presentation of the preliminary plans, estimates and report.

Twenty per cent of the above agreed engineering fee, payable as soon as the funds are available from the sale of the bonds.

Fifty per cent of the above agreed engineering fee less the preliminary payment of $1500 to be paid at the time of the awarding of the contracts for material and construction work.

Twenty-five per cent of the above agreed engineering fee to be paid in equal monthly installments, pro-rated over the time fixed for completion of the contract for the construction work.

The balance, or five per cent of the engineering fee to be paid within 30 days after the final completion of the construction work by the city of Glendale.

It is agreed that if the bonds for the proposed improvements are not authorized and sold, then there shall be no further payments, due or made to Burns & McDonnell Engineering company, other than the preliminary $1500 for the preliminary work up to the bond election and the balance of the contract shall be null and void, at the option of the city.

Signed by Mayor Spencer Robinson.

not? And yet this very thing happens in thousands of instances daily when some earnest Christian Scientist attempts the work of rescue for a shipwrecked brother or sister. Material medicine scoffs, old theology hurls its anathema, the worldly-minded sneer and shrug their shoulders; and, in spite of all this, the sick and sinning and heart-broken are being rescued in ever-increasing numbers. What glorious quick healing work may we expect to see with increased consecration on the part of practitioner and patient, and a lessened hatred and intolerance with the onlooking brethren not of our fold. So the Christian Science life-saver refuses to be dismayed or discouraged. He is grateful that he is doing as well as he is, and prays for understanding and grace to do better work in the future. Dare he even admit that those who have passed from our sight, battling to the last moment as good Christian warriors, have gone down in defeat? Never! Mrs. Eddy says of such soldiers, that they have gained "a rich blessing of disbelief in death, and a higher realization of heaven." (Miscellany, p. 297). So fear not, and despair not, whether you are the rescuer or the one being rescued!

"Oft there comes a gentle whisper
o'er me stealing,
When my trials or my burdens
seem too great,
Like the sweet-voiced bells of evening, softly pealing,
It is saying to my spirit, 'Only wait!'

"When I cannot understand my Father's leading,
And it seems to be but hard and
cruel fate;
Still I hear that gentle whisper,
ever pleading:
'God is faithful, God is working;
only wait!'

"When the promise seems to linger, long delaying,
And I tremble lest perhaps it comes too late—
Then I hear the gentle whisper ever saying:
'Though it tarry, it is coming;
only wait!'

"Oh, how little soon will seem our hardest sorrow,
And how trifling is our present
brief estate!
Could we see it in the light of Love's tomorrow,
Oh, how easy it would be for us to wait!"

This is not a plea to postpone our deliverance to a future heaven, but to strengthen faith to lay hold on spiritual blessings here and now, and courageously and unfalteringly to keep on demanding man's birthright of dominion until it is made manifest. Do Christian Scientists demand the joy and good that are their God-given heritage? Many seem to think that joy is like a capricious butterfly which may or may not flutter in upon them; whereas joyousness is part and parcel of man's real nature, and mortals must learn to claim it as vigorously as they demand freedom from pain and sin. The joyless Christian Scientist still wanders in the mist and in the maze of the Adam-dream.

Conclusion

The Psalmist sings, "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." And unnumbered thousands of earth's dreamers, redeemed from the long night of materialism, are thanking God for His unspeakable gift, the Science of Christianity, and are hearing in the bright morning hours of spiritual revelation Love's joyous message to man:

"O man greatly beloved, fear not:
Peace be unto thee,
Be strong, yea, be strong."

Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act to provide a system of street improvement bonds to represent certain assessments for the cost of street work and improvements within municipalities and also for the payment of such bonds," approved February 27, 1893, and of all Acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof.

This New Treatment Never Fails to End Piles

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained.

All druggists dispense MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES in the original box or can get it for you on short notice.—Adv.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The present accusations in regard to the former director of the U. S. Veterans' bureau now being disclosed by the senate committee at Washington, are not new to legionnaires in California. It was because of accusation made by Judge A. E. Graupner, chairman of the state welfare and rehabilitation committee of the California Legion, at New Orleans during the fourth annual national convention of the American Legion last year, that the then director packed his grips and returned to Washington without formerly appearing before the convention, which finally resulted in his resignation from the position. Judge A. E. Graupner in making his report for the American Legion to the senate select committee on investigation of the U. S. Veterans' bureau, which is just off the press, makes the following remarks:

"An architect was selected to draw plans for the tuberculosis hospital on the recommendation of several California politicians, although he had not a single professional recommendation or endorsement. He drew three sets of plans which were entirely impracticable for the selection and the purposes of the hospital and received approximately $68,000 for the plans, which had to be discarded.

"On the purchase of the site at Livermore, $105,000 was paid by the government for the land. It is reported that Lucian B. Johnson, the owner of the property, only received $80,000 and that the remainder of the money was divided in other ways. No trace of the exact distibution of this $25,000 can be had."

"The Dr. Ellis Ex-Ray contract was also attacked by the American Legion rehabilitation committee, where exorbitant rentals and fees were paid without any consideration of the cost to the government or the amount of work done."

Judge Graupner also makes the statement that the contract with the Mack Copper company for the hospital at Camp Kearney near San Diego also looks very suspicicus.

All the fact connected with these allegations have been placed in the hands of the senate committee and the present director, General Hines, who is making every effort to right the wrong committed by his predecessor.

To Erect Statue to Diaz, Brazil's Poet

[By Associated Press]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30.—Brazil will erect in Mexico City a great bronze statue of the famous Brazilian poet, Gonvalez Dias, as a mark of esteem and affection for Mexico, according to report to the foreign office by the Mexican ambassador at Rio de Janeiro. The ambassador adds that the necessary funds have already been voted and that the Brazilian government was prompted to the act by the presentation during the Centennial at Rio of an heroic figure of Cuauhtemoc, the last Aztec emperor, to Brazil by the Mexican government.

WHAT'S NEW ON SHELVES AT THE CITY LIBRARY

Reviews of Some of the Latest Offerings in Fiction and Posey

Many new books embracing a wide variety of topics and appeal to the booklover, have been added to the shelves of the Glendale public library on Harvard street. Humor, religion, travel, fiction and facts are all included. Some of the new volumes are enumerated below:

"Snake Doctor," by Irvin S. Cobb. A typical Cobb collection, including a story of old Judge Priest, headed by the dramatic tale which won the O. Henry memorial award.

"The Amateur Inn," by Albert Payson Terhune. A mystery novel which builds its complications one by one, to apparent insolubility, carries forward a good love story and constantly reduces you to laughter by its characterizations.

"The Four Stragglers," by Frank L. Packard. A melodramatic mystery with the real Monte Cristo flavor.

"Wheel Within Wheels," by Carolyn Wells. "I am Angela Howland." Who was this beautiful impostor, posing as a child dead for fifteen years and appearing on the morning after her father's murder? And was she an impostor?

"The Box of Spikenard," by Ethel Boileau. The box of spikenard was Feo's love for her husband, and the story is of how she uproarous good fun.

"Oh, Doctor!" by Harry Leon Wilson. A novel in which the author is at his best in the art of gentle humor, friendly satire and uproarous good fund.

"The Discovery of God," by Basil King. Basil King takes the great characters of the Bible and, evidently, after a most careful study, he has gleaned the great truths for which each Old Testament prophet stood. These truths he has set down in his book. In the chapter on "David, who Discovers the God of Right," King makes a tremendous observation in these words: "In harmony with God all things tend to go smoothly; in departure from God all things tend to go wrong." In another chapter he said, "It is not what a man knows about God but what God knows about a man which is of first importance."

"Not in Our Stars," by Michael Maurice. To lovers of the weird and unusual in fiction this engrossing story can be heartily recommended. It is the singular story of a man who lives his life backwards.

"The Art of Inventing Characters," by Georges Polti. An analysis of the elements of human personality and an illustration of the principles by which these elements may be combined to produce new types in endless variety. The book is of value to writers and others interested in a psychological approach to the art of fiction.

"Including You and Me," by Strickland Gillilan. This book contains over a hundred poems of charming human interest qualities.

"Desolate Splendor," by Michael Sadleir. A dramatic narrative of family rivalry and of hunger for property.

"The Black Parrot," by Harry Hervey. Not a novel of the conventional world where houses are built in regular rows and life a certainty, but of the golden Chersonese—that romantic country between Malaya and Indo-China—where anything might happen and everything does.

CONFORM HOUSE TO FAVORITE AUTHOR?

The "Unofficial Observer" complains thusly:

"Being one of those wistful and perpetual prospects against whom the 'Own Your Own Home' campaign is directed, we read the National Real Estate Journal with thoughtful care. It seems that the ultimate word in salesmanship, according to the current issue of the Journal, is to 'reduce sales-resistance by analyzing your buyer's library.' If he reads Harold Bell Wright and Zane Grey, solid comfort and respectability are his first requirements, but if his library contains Conrad, Henry James, Balzac, and De Morgan, the salesman must use the utmost discrimination, as his desire for a distinctive home with beautiful and harmonious surroundings will be limited only by his income. We wonder if the research managers of large real estate corporations furnish their young salesmen with charts something like this:

"'If the prospect's library contains any of the following books, show him the type of home dwelling listed opposite.

"'Christopher Morley — Small, Tudor English, old, ivy-covered, must have good kitchen and large fireplace that draws.

"'Booth Tarkington — Not too modern town house, well-kept-up, trim lawn, hospitable porches, comfortable servants' quarters.

"'Gene Stratton-Porter—Bungalow, sun parlor, well-planned kitchen, laundry and nursery, flower boxes, trees.

"'Joseph Conrad—Far horizons, a vista of the sea, broken roof lines, high hedges.'"

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

A MESSAGE FROM THE NIGHT

Sweetheart of mine, could I steal back to thee,
Back through the misted deeps, from Spiritland,
Or could I wing a whisper, tremblingly,
A message thou couldst hear and understand,
No words save only these I'd breathe to air,
Soft as the drowsy summer winds might sigh,
Light as the nestling roses in thy hair:
"Sweetheart of mine, I love thee—do not cry."

Mother of mine, could I look back to thee,
To see thee sitting silent and alone,
In the half-light, half-night, and could I see
Thy tear-wet cheek, and hear the heart-wrung moan;
Ah, Mother mine, if I could whisper low
A message from that Otherwhere, to fly
Upon the wings of Love, the song would blow:
"Mother of mine, I love thee—do not cry."

Father of mine, could I call back to thee,
Back through the silent mists and sombre shade,
When thou art cloaked in Grief and Memory,
Thy heart with mine in the deep darkness laid;
Could I, from the sad silence, speak and say
The words that wake within my heart, to dry
Those unshed tears, close to thine ears I'd lay
My lips—"Father, I love thee—do not cry."

Oh, Love of mine, where'er thou art or how Thou wert in lifetime linked to me,
Could I, from the far distance, on thy brow
Lay soft a spirit hand and lovingly
Speak to thee, light as leaf upon the air
Floats down, or light as sleeping lilies lie
Upon the eddying waters, thou wouldst share
My message: "Sweet, I love thee—do not cry."

"ZAZA" WAS FIRST SHOWN ON STAGE 25 YEARS AGO

Director Allan Dwan, Gloria Swanson, H. B. Warner, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Lucille LaVerne, Riley Hatch, Mary Thurman and others had a silver jubilee all their own at the Paramount Long Island studio during the filming of "Zaza."

An interesting anecdote of how "Zaza" came to be produced on the American stage was related recently. When "Zaza" was playing in Paris with Mme. Rejane in the title part, the late Charles Frohman was in London with Mr. Belasco. Frohman went to Paris to see "Zaza." He returned to London and said to Belasco:

"I couldn't understand a word the woman said, but it is the greatest play I ever saw. Go over and see what you think of it."

Belasco went to Paris and came back with a report on the play equally as enthusiastic as Frohman's. Frohman bought the rights of the play and in January, 1899, it was produced in New York with Mrs. Leslie Carter in the title role.

"Zaza," which gives Gloria Swanson the best role of her screen career, will be shown at the Gateway Theater last times today. H. B. Warner is her leading man and heads a strong supporting cast.

ENID BENNETT IS HEROINE OF FILM AT THE GLENDALE

Enid Benentt, who plays the heroine in "Strangers of the Night," now showing at the Glendale Theater, attributes her success in pictures to her husband, Fred Niblo.

While she was working in an office in Perth, Australia, Mr. Niblo advertised for someone to play a minor part in his current production. Her girlhood penchant for the stage was gratified when Mr. Niblo, who was then appearing in Australia, gave her the part. Her performance led to other engagements and Mr. Niblo coached her in the art of acting. Their marriage followed and Miss Bennett was seen in a series of screen plays directed by her husband.

The Niblos are now together again for "Strangers of the Night," the screen version of Walter Hackett's "Captain Applejack."

The cast includes Matt Moore, Barbara La Marr and Robert McKim.

ANNA Q. NILSSON IN MANLY PART AT T. D. & L. THEATER

Anna Q. Nilsson proves she is a man of her word (literally, for she assumes the part of a man and plays it perfectly) in "Ponjola," now showing at the T., D. & L. for the last times today. Then there are Tully Marshall, James Kirkwood and a big supporting cast that make this great film story of Paris and South Africa a stunning romance. It's a new departure for Anna Q., this manly part, and her many admirers will enjoy the transition.

Favor 6-Year Term for Mexican President

[By Associated Press]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30.—A group of deputies have announced their intention to inaugurate a campaign for the reformation of article 83 of the constitution in order to lengthen the presidential term from four to six years. They assert that under the present system the executive has only two years to devote to constructive work, since during the other two his time is fully occupied by purely political questions.

Just Chatter

By JOHN J. MULLIGAN

Hallowe'en comes ones again with its odd fantastic thoughts and deed. One again the spooks and yellow-eyed glaring pumpkins, the black cats and the evil spirits will have their day and hold their sway. Once again old hag-like witches will ride their broomsticks through the night. Once again we'll duck for apples and, throwing the peelings over the right shoulder, make at midnight our fondest wish. Once again the kids will romp through the streets in their stockings of flour and their odd-looking clothes, chalking our windows, ringing our bells.

Many of Hallowe'en's superstitions, especially the burning of fires, dates away back to the days of the Druids. Silly they seem to us of this somewhat more enlightened age, but really we of today have almost as many superstitions, which once a year, at least, it would be a good idea to take out and air, to garb them in the ridiculous costumes which they so deserve and parade them before us that we may see for ourselves just how foolish they really are, not to say harmful.

The fear of crossing beneath a ladder, the sight of a black cat, the spilling of salt, opening an umbrella inside a house, lighting three cigars with a single match, the itchy nose, the fall of a fork, the breaking of a mirror, the fear of thirteen, the luck of the four-leaf clover, horseshoe and rabbit's foot, and a hundred one other little idiosyncrasies and superstitions which still cling to us despite our advanced knowledge and thought. It is well-known fact that the average gambler looks with suspicion and fear upon a two-dollar bill, while many folks wear gee-gaws for luck.

A mighty good things to have a Hallowe'en of our own if only once a year and clear out these black cats and witches of our minds. In the vernacular of the day, "Give them the air."

Of the stories about Whistler, the great artist and wit, the following is a good specimen, writes Edwin A. Ward, the well-known English portrait painter:

"Whistler told me he was dining out shortly after his libel action against Ruskin, and was holding forth on the miserable methods of his adversary, when a lady who was sitting on the right espostulated with him upon the violence of his tirade, saying, "You perhaps are not aware that Mr. Ruskin is an uncle on mine?" "Never mind, my dear madam," ejaculated Whistler. "We all have relations of whom we are more or less ashamed."

From the Orchards of the Pacific-Southwest

THE broad valleys and sloping hillsides of the Pacific-Southwest are covered with orchards which yield an abundance of fruit of every description. From the 215,000 acres of deciduous fruits in this territory there came last year crops with a total farm value of more than $16,000,000.00.

The estimated value of the individual crops included in this acreage was: Peaches, $7,550,000; apricots, $3,250,000; apples, $2,100,000; prunes, $930,000; figs, $850,000; pears, $625,000; olives, $350,000; cherries, $281,000; plums, $210,000.

The activities of the Pacific-Southwest are diverse. Production, movement and marketing of crops extends throughout the year.

The Pacific-Southwest Bank through its inter-community system, operating in thirty-six California cities from Fresno south, has been able to create a continuous circle of bank credits, which brings about an elasticity resulting in a vastly increased financial service to each community and the Pacific-Southwest as a whole.
